

The Do Not Call law should remain stringent in the state of New Jersey because many of these calls come at times of the day that are just disrespectful for hardworking taxpayers that do not appreciate calls from unwanted solicitors. The policy should be if you did not ask to be called, then you should not receive a call. Besides, what else do they know about who they are calling, is the real danger. They are selling personal information, so that nothing is private.